From the Director's Desk

The past school year has been unlike anything any of us have experienced and challenges have continued to hit our community like a battering ram. Our students have not been immune from the effects of the pandemic and have suffered as much, or more, than the rest of us. Despite the challenges, students have continued to work hard, and we are so proud to see another successful printing of 'The Bugle'. We would ask the community to take a few moments and read the contributions made to 'The Bugle' and reflect with pride, at the efforts and progress our students have made this year. Let us hope that literacy continues to be a part of every student's daily practice and at a minimum each student spends some time reading, simply for the pleasure of it. Congratulations to our students and thank you to the staff who would have counselled our children, even if from afar. Special thanks to Ms. Alka Sarkar for her ongoing contribution as the Editor in Chief.

Play and Experiential Ways of Learning

Play and experiential learning along with different stages and types of play are beautiful natural ways of constructive learning. It is imperative to look at play from the very beginning in a child's life. Is it something that one imposes or induces or is it something that is natural, self-driven and mentored?

How does it help us to learn and why is it important to talk about it?

Babies just open their eyes and start looking outside in the environment they are born into; they start exploring gradually through all their sense organs and the learning starts, is it not natural?

If children are given a natural freedom to explore through different stages of learning, they will grow by learning at each moment. Play can become a part of their learning in school going years also, where sometimes the style of education is imposed on a child. It is important for children to learn through natural ways in a constructive manner so that their learning can be developed, and they can enjoy the process of learning. Here a significant role of experiential teaching comes in. A teacher is there as a mentor, providing them with an environment where independence is given in a natural surrounding with many objects around.

Learners would like to interact with the environment where a mentor is there to hand hold and peers are there to collaborate. They can learn by exploring sand, pots, water, balloons, squeaks, bottle covers, water pipes and everything around and this will turn into reflection-based experiential learning in a constructive way.

Let us take a small example of learning about parts of the body. Children were taken to a place with mirrors around them and were given paints, clay, ice cream spoons, colour pens, crayons, pencils. While playing around if they suddenly looked into the mirror or when they were putting paint on each other on different body parts, it led to learning about one another and also led to learning about different body parts like face, hand, legs etc. Here an adult plays a great role - while looking into the mirror, the child is looking at himself or herself, a mentor or a parent can say "wow, amazing, your eyes are so beautiful!" this will develop knowledge about body parts with a positive image and children will be motivated and happily move forward with their learning. They grow to love themselves and they learn to appreciate their peers too. Later, they reflect and learn that they are different from one another. Children enjoy these learning experiences and they construct meaning which may be goal oriented as per age. The role of a mentor here can be of providing them the right environment and also hand holding during learning, instead of driving them through. To conclude, it can be said that play is a journey of learning which involves developing each day rather than reaching a fixed pre-determined destination.

Earth Day

Earth day is around the corner
 Hurray hurray!
 Grow more and more trees don't disagree.
 Keep the environment clean, and the nature green.
 If you want to eat fruits,
 fulfill nature's needs.
 Reuse, reuse more and more,
 do not throw away
 Earth day is around the corner.
 Hurray hurray!

Digital Etiquette

Digital etiquette is a set of online manners that are needed to create a safe environment for all the users, especially young children. It is important that the children know how to conduct themselves online and show respect to fellow users. This is necessary not just for the sake of those they are interacting with, but also for their own safety. The parents should help children join the class with only the official id and they should set a strong password. They should promote punctuality and should not allow children to fidget with their gadgets during online classes. It is very important for children to join their classes on time, sit in a proper posture, wait for their turn and listen to the teacher's instructions. As adults, we need to encourage the students to have an open-ended communication on online learning and remove their doubts. Also, we need to model our online behaviour and set appropriate standards for children. Let us not forget that the rules of living in the real world are very similar to rules of living in the online world.

My Most Prized Possession

My hoverboard is my most prized possession. It is black in colour. There is a button in front, with which it can be turned on and off. It also has a stick, with which we can change the directions. My father got it for me, from China, as a gift, when I was five years old. I love to take it to the park. It is a lot easier for me to move from one place to the other. I keep it safely, in a corner of my huge room.

My Online Classes

In the month of March and April 2020 there began a pandemic. A virus named Covid-19 came, because of which our online classes started. I like my virtual classes but not more than offline school. In offline school I could meet and communicate with my friends and teachers. Now, I am missing my school a lot. I do understand the concepts taught during our online classes, but things become more interesting when we are all together. This time has made us realise that one can learn from anywhere and everywhere if a person wishes to.

Rainbow Girls and the Volcano Dragon

As the name suggests, 'Rainbow Girls' is a group of high-school girls, who have different qualities needed for a good personality. They are able help the needy with these qualities and it makes them very popular at high-school. Their names are Else, Octane, Kania, Pora, Nisha, Ake and Rainbowella. Else possess quality of kindness while Octane is very brave. Kania loves peace and Pora favours loyalty. Nisha is generous, Ake spreads love and Rainbowella has special magical powers. She is born with them. All these girls are best friends and help sort out problems in their school and city. They live in a city called Rainbow Heights. It has a river running through it called 'The Flua'. One day, when they were having lunch at the Tambourine Café, Pora came and said breathlessly, "Guys, the people at the juice stand are talking about some strange dragon which had descended from the volcano in the forest nearby and is roaring very loudly. This disturbs people and they are unable to sleep". The Rainbow Girls decided that they should stop this mayhem and go to the volcano in the forest by the name of Roaring Forest. That night, they all found themselves climbing the volcano where the dragon lived. They had to be careful, because one wrong move could cause a rockslide. Fortunately, they all made it safe and sound. They took shelter in a cave near the summit of the volcano. They waited and waited for the dragon to appear. Finally at midnight, the dragon emerged from the volcano. He was covered in boiling hot lava, but it did not seem to bother him. They turned on their flashlights, so they could see the dragon better. You might like to know whether the Rainbow Girls were scared or not; well, they were not scared, because they knew they had to help their people. The dragon started descending towards Rainbow Heights, getting ready to roar. Just then, Else, who knew Dragon language, called out "Volcano Dragon, come over here!" Else had the special powers and was able to talk to all animals.

The dragon saw the Rainbow Girls standing in front of the cave and dived from the sky, just to land at the edge of the cave. He made a sort of scrunching noise, like when you chew something crunchy, a toast or something similar. Else said to the dragon, "Why are you flying down to our city and roaring. People are getting disturbed and are unable to sleep". To everyone's surprise the dragon, spoke up in a human voice, "I am trying to wake everyone up and warn them. The volcano is going to erupt tomorrow. No one understands me, instead they shout at me. I am a tough volcano dragon, with a gentle heart. I am so sorry if the people thought I was a nightmare." Else said, "We are also sorry that we thought that you were trying to disturb and harm our people for a bad purpose. But now, thanks to you, the whole Rainbow Heights city will be prepared before the eruption. Else asked sympathetically, "Just one thing, will you still be able to live in the volcano after the eruption?" The dragon said, "Oh yes, don't you worry about me. This will always be my home." The next day the city was evacuated and no one was harmed when the volcano erupted. The best part was that the lava flow did not destroy any of the property and houses. Later in the day, after the eruption, the Prime Minister honoured the Rainbow Girls medals for their bravery. He named the volcano in the Roaring Forest, 'Dragon Volcano'.

Lucky - The Dog

Once, there was a dog named Lucky. He was a big black dog. He loved to play all day. He lived in Tina's house. Tina had to go to school every day, so Lucky was sad. He wanted Tina to stay at home and play with him.

One day, when Tina had gone to school, he heard a girl giggling outside his house. When he went out, he saw a girl playing with her dogs. He bounced over his fence to play with her. At first, he had lots of fun, but then the little girl started pulling his ears and tail. Lucky did not like it, so he bounced over the fence again and came back to his garden.

Then he saw an old lady patting and playing with her dog, so Lucky went into her garden. The old lady rubbed his tummy and played with him, but after a while she was tired. She sat on her chair and slept. Lucky was bored again.

Suddenly, he saw some thieves entering the old lady's house. He started barking loudly and pulling the old lady's clothes to warn her. By the time the old lady woke up, the thieves had stolen her money and were on a run. Lucky chased them and was able to see, where they were hiding. He headed back to the old lady's house just as the police arrived.

He pulled the policemen, sniffed his way and took everyone to the place where the thieves were hiding. The police caught the thieves and put them in jail. The police and the old lady thanked Lucky and gave him a reward. When Tina got to know about Lucky's brave act, she was so proud of him!

Trees

Trees, Trees, Trees,
They make us feel free,
And give us oxygen to breathe.
They are green machines,
Which make our world clean.
We find them everywhere,
They give us everything-
Paper, wood, medicines.
They also give animals shelter,
Which makes them feel
so much better.

The Evil Woman

I was sleeping on a couch,
Taking a nap terribly deep.
Where I saw an evil woman,
Eating none, but just a bun.

She asked me to roam,
On the streets of Rome.
And find her enchanted bat,
Also keep it near her hat.

She was knitting a purl,
wearing her favourite pearl.
She told me to go alone,
And she would track me through a drone.

I wanted to save all the men,
So, I went to my playing den.
I thought let me do the right thing,
And write a message to all my friends.

Not one, not two, not three, not four,
So many friends came and made a plan,
To reduce Evil woman's power,
With the help of a magical spray can.

My troop got ready,
It was dressed as a dancing troupe.
As the dancing was on,
On evil woman's face the spray was thrown.

We gathered all the courage,
to put the bat in the fire.
While catching the bat,
the evil woman too
got burnt,
With all her evil
desires.

My Visit to NGMA

Last February, on a Sunday,
Charu Ma'am, our grammar teacher decided to take us on a trip to the National Gallery of Modern Art. All through the way, we cracked jokes and had fun. After some time, we reached there and started making our paintings. I made a heart shaped Earth,
with colorful continents and a big Sun, in the background. After few hours, we went for a pottery session, where I tried my hand at the potter's wheel and made a pretty clay mug. Then, we had some more fun and ate our snacks. When we finished our food, we went to see the cultural performances. Kathak, dance form was being presented. The girls were performing very beautifully and I loved it. Then, it was the time to leave and give our feedback. So, I wrote my feedback, that it was a wonderful experience in this world of art - the NGMA. I would want more of such experiences in my life. So, I recommend all my friends and readers that they must visit the National Gallery of Modern Art at least once. It is in close proximity to India Gate, in New Delhi.

Heal The Mother Earth

Hooray!! It's Earth Day,
Friends! Let's make this day go our way,
Yes, yes! We deserve to preserve,
However, let us first be aware.

We have to make our planet heal,
Before the devils make us kneel,
For we contaminated our Earth,
spoiled its water,
polluted our air and space,
Yes indeed, we made a big mistake

Plastic is not fantastic,
Use only when something is drastic,
Agreed, we can use paper, but isn't digital better?
Plants, we should grow and not throw,

Pollution, Pollution, Pollution - we need a solution,
Our next generation is waiting at the station.
Yes, you are the world's only hope,
Let's not pass this on for them to cope.

Reduce, Reuse, Recycle! Preserve should be our first mantra,
Cause, healing later is no magic or tantra!
So, let's not meddle with nature and make the ozone hole,
Let's pledge today to make this our priority goal.

A Trip To The Moon

Once there lived five friends. They were all means of transport. Their names were Red- the car, Romty – the rocket, Dust – the dump truck, Balloon – the bus and Snow- the van. They made new friends with four people, named Brownie, Pinki, Busty and Baby.

Together they all went inside Romty, the rocket and they flew to the moon. They had lots of fun on the moon. There they all met Allos, the alien. After some time, they all started playing basketball, when Romty accidentally broke the net. So, everyone played football.

It had been a tiring day. Then the alien's parents came and put everyone in bed including Allos and everybody fell asleep immediately. When they all woke up, everyone looked around for Allos, but he has not there. Then they realised, that they all were dreaming and they lived happily afterwards.

CORONA, Go Away!

Corona, since you have come in our world,
Sadness and misery have spread all around.

Death, illness and pain is all we see,
Explaining to us how difficult life can be.

Life has shown its different shades,
You have given us marks which will never fade.

Corona the dreadful one, you have taught us a lesson,
That taking precautions is the only solution.

Washing hands, wearing masks and keeping distance too.
Is all that we citizens have to do.

So, as responsible citizens it's our duty,
To help each other maintain internal and external beauty.

Together if we unite, this time too shall pass,
So that all children will be able to go to their class.

It's now time for you CORONA to go away,
Humanity and Mother Earth will surely heal us in their own way.

Deforestation

Deforestation is when we cut forests to make cities and deforestation is also when we just cut trees because we need the wood. The main reasons that cause deforestation are natural disasters, urbanization, agriculture, building dams and mining. The effects of deforestation are natural disasters like floods, loss of habitat which can lead to endangering of animal species, drought and irregular rainfall. It also causes climate change and global warming.

We can stop deforestation by reducing consumption of paper, eating less meat, enforcing a law to ban deforestation. We must follow reforestation.

Move On!

When lockdown started,
I graduated to grade four,
But as the year ended,
I went to grade five to learn more.
But all the lessons were different,
The teachers were different too,
The timetables were different,
The students remained same that's true.
I try to adapt, and adjust to such big changes,
For the educational knowledge,
Is as big and restless as the Ganges.
But I began, missing my previous teacher so,
Then I remembered what she had said,
Everyone needs to move on,
We have a long way to go.

A Trip to the Library

I went to the library, scampered off to the children's section and saw so many books.
Oh! Which one should I pick? to take a look.

History tells us about our journey from ancient civilizations,
encyclopedias tell about animals and birds and give so much more information!

Books about plants tell you about parts of a plant and seeds,
Books about the sea tell you about sea
creatures and weeds.
And books with riddles are just so fun
to read!

And so many more,
Just like a knowledge store.

I picked up all the books I wanted to read,
I did not miss any and took them all,
The books grew into a pile, oh so tall!

I opened one up and so many new words
I could see,
Then I chose my books, and issued them all,
I left the library as happy as I could be!

Trees of Rainforest

Rainforests have trees long,
So that they can get sunlight and sing a happy song.
Leaves have drip tip and are broad,
So easily you can't pass, through the narrow road.
Animals move freely with their entourage,
But to protect themselves they get a camouflage.
Tropical rainforests are a true bliss,
Here you can listen to the roar, the chirp and the hiss.

My Bird Daffodil - A True Story

Tuesday morning, when I woke up, our house help saw a pocket-sized bird which had fallen off its nest. She thought of getting the bird to our house, so that the dogs within reach could not eat it. When the small bird came home, she was a little intimidated as everything was new for her. My father loves birds and we named the bird Daffodil. At first, I was a bit bamboozled at what the bird ate. Then my mother thought that we could give Daffodil cooked rice. Daffodil really liked it, but she took a little time to chew, as her mouth and beak were small. After paying attention to Daffodil's voice, many other birds which we had never seen earlier came to our garden and took a seat on our tree. The next day, I saw that she was not waking up, I got scared. At first, I thought she was dead, but then she started making sounds which gave me relief. When she opened her beak, I gave her some water, but she still did not revive. Slowly her heartbeat faded. I was sad the whole day. In the beginning, I had thought that I would be able to take care of her, but through this experience, I learnt that everybody needs their parents.

The Kind Woman

Once upon a time, there was a poor boy named Jack Clue. Jack barely had any food to eat. He begged for money. But one day, a kind woman gave him a thousand dollars. He was confused and asked her why she had given him so much money. That kind woman said that she always believed in 'What goes around comes around'. Jack was very happy as now he could buy some food. But when he looked at the money, he saw a diamond ring in the middle of the dollar note. He realised that the kind woman must have dropped her ring in the middle of the note accidentally. Jack ran to tell her, but she was not there. Jack went to every street, but he could not find her. So, he went to a jewellery shop and asked, "How much is this ring for?". The owner took the ring and started checking. He said, "$5000". But Jack did not accept the deal because the kind lady had said, 'What goes around comes around'. Then Jack remembered that she was wearing an office uniform which said, 'Book Lab'. Jack rushed to the office and found her. He gave her the ring and went back. At night, someone gave him seven million dollars. He was very happy and shocked. After a few years, he learnt that the woman who helped him was a famous author, and it was she who had given Jack seven million dollars.

The Happy Crab's Happy Journey

There was a crab called Happy Crab. He had two cousins - Jassi and Jelly. Jassi was elder to Jelly. Happy Crab bid his cousins goodbye and set on a journey. One day, he met Jolly, the octopus. Jolly asked, "Will you be my friend?" "Yes, I would love to be your friend", said Happy Crab. Next day, he met another friend Janie who was a jelly fish. Janie asked him, "Will you be my friend?" "Yes", said Happy Crab. Next day, he met another friend who was a dolphin. His name was Bannie. Next day, he did not find any friend so he decided to go to other places like the jungles, the deserts and the polar region. He went to the jungle first. There, he met big friends. However, they were not friendly. His first friend was the baby tiger, then he met a big tiger. The tiger roared and told him that he was the mightiest animal of the jungle. In the Polar region, he met a big polar bear. He asked, "Will you be my friend?" "Yes, I can be your friend." said the bear. Later, he went to the desert and met a camel. Happy Crab said, "I need to find my friends." The camel said, "I can tell you where to find your friends. You have to go to China." He went in a helicopter and saw his friends having a party. They all were dancing. They invited Happy Crab to their party and asked him to dance with them, but he refused as it was time for him to go home. They used helicopter and car to go back to their house. Jassi and Jelly were happy to meet the crab again and they played happily in the evening.

What We Can Teach

When I watch news on the television with my daddy, I see adults shouting, screaming, and not listening to each other. This is not how we behave during our online classes! So, I thought, we children could teach the adults something about-how to behave on the national television.

Firstly, the microphone should be on the mute mode when someone is speaking. This way we can hear the speaker clearly and understand what he has to say. Also, the noise at the speaker's place, if there is any, should be removed; this will not disturb the speaker and he can say what he wants to say.

Secondly, we should only speak when we are asked to speak. My teacher has taught me to wait for my turn and only when she calls my name, do I have to speak. If I think I have something to say, I need to raise my hand and then my teacher will ask me to speak.

If adults follow, these two things while on the television, each of them would be able to say what they want to say and clearly hear and understand what others have to say. Most importantly, viewers of the news will be able to hear and understand the speakers better, isn't that the whole idea of news?

Note:

My daddy helped me in writing and typing this.

Caring for Rabbits

I have two rabbits Jincy and Laila. One is male and the other one is female.

I learned a lot of things about rabbits with my mother. I am sharing a few important points on rabbits, based on my experiences -

- Keep rabbits, cage free. There are two reasons for keeping rabbits cage free. Firstly, they need a lot of space to run and hop. Secondly, they also need physical exercise.
- In case you wish to cage them, then make sure that the cage is a large one, so that they can roam around freely in the cage. To make sure the floor is soft, keep a soft mat inside the cage. Remember to take them out occasionally and do not put the rabbits inside the cage all the time.
- A rabbit's main diet includes 90 % of hay or fresh green grass and 10% of pellets. Vegetables like carrots and the fruits like bananas are just the right treat for them. It can be given only once a week. You can also leave some green leafy vegetables near them.
- Rabbits are self-grooming animals; thus, they do not need a bath daily.
- We should cut their nails and comb their body regularly.
- As they have long ears, their hearing is very sharp. We should avoid loud noises near them as they get scared very fast.
- Rabbits can be toilet trained and taught to use the litter box. If rabbits litter anywhere else by chance, then we can clean it with the tissue paper and put the tissue in their litter box. They will then smell their litter in the tissue and use the specified area each time.
- For making their litter box, take a small cardboard box in which your rabbit can fit. Put dry grass in the box for comfort. Please clean the box every two days.

Please do not buy rabbits, adopt them instead.

I am so lucky to have Jincy and Laila in my life. I hope these points are helpful to everyone.

Interesting Idioms

Idioms are a group of words with a special meaning. The meaning it sends out is symbolic in nature and may be very different from the actual meaning of the words altogether. This characteristic makes them difficult to understand at times. However, they have a sense of mystery and fun about them as well. Here are a few interesting Idioms for you to think and use.

- To break a leg – to wish good luck.
- To get up from the wrong side of the bed – not a good start.
- I'll check the rain – to politely turn down a request.
- On the ball – doing a good job, being responsible.
- Elephant in the room – issue or problem one is trying to avoid.
- To get a second wind – having energy again after being tired or worn out.

पहेलियाँ- बूझो तो जानें

- ◆ छोटा - सा हूँ मैं प्राणी,
सबके कानों में गुनगुना जाता हूँ।
जब मरज़ी इंजेक्शन लगा देता हूँ, जल्दी बताओ कौन हूँ मैं ?
- ◆ ऐसी क्या है,
जो सिर्फ बढ़ती है और कभी कम नहीं होती है?
- ◆ बताओ ज़रा, गोल है पर गेंद नहीं,
पूँछ है पर पशु नहीं।
बच्चे उसकी पूँछ को पकड़कर
खेलते-हँसते और हैं खिलखिलाते।
- ◆ हैं अलग-अलग पर रंग-ढंग एक जैसे।
अगर एक बिछड़ जाए तो दूसरा काम न आए।

यह वक्त माना कठिन है बहुत आया

यह वक्त माना कठिन है बहुत आया,
पर इसने हमें बहुत कुछ है सिखाया।
हमें संयम और सावधानी है बरतनी,
हमेशा हर जगह स्वच्छता है रखनी।
हाथों को धोना है बार-बार,
शरीर को देना है पोषण अपार।
स्वस्थ शरीर ही है असली संपत्ति,
इस पर है अब सबकी सहमति।
स्वच्छता के साथ-साथ व्यवहार भी है बदलना,
शारीरिक दूरी रखनी है पर सबका ध्यान भी रखना।
अपनी शिक्षा पर प्रभाव नहीं पड़ने देंगे,
घर में ही रहकर नित नया ज्ञान प्राप्त करेंगे।
इस समय से हम अवश्य जीत जाएँगे,
जल्दी ही फिर से सब स्कूल जाएँगे।
विद्यालय हो या घर अपना,
मेहनत से पूरा होगा हर सपना।

मेरा हिंदुस्तान

हिंदुस्तान मेरा बड़ा मस्ताना,
मैं हूँ इसका दीवाना।
तीन रंगों से बना झंडा हमारा,
लहाराने से है जिसके सम्मान
हमारा।
मिलकर रहते हैं सभी परिवार की तरह,
सभी धर्म-जाति इत्यादि न जाने किस तरह।
युगों-युगों से चली आ रही हमारी सभ्यता,
राम की मर्यादा से बापू की सत्यता।
मेहमानों को देखा जाता है यहाँ ईश्वर के रूप में,
हमारी संस्कृति ले आती है स्वर्ग प्रकृति के रूप में।
गंगा, यमुना, नर्मदा, सिंधु सभी तो हैं यहाँ।
होली, दिवाली, ईद, क्रिसमस आते ऋतुओं की तरह।
पूरब हो या पश्चिम, हम ही हैं सबके मध्य।
निस्संदेह मेरा ही भारत उत्तम है सारे विश्व में।

तितली रानी

प्यारी-प्यारी तितली,
रंग-बिरंगी तितली।
फूल-फूल पर जाती है,
मीठा शहद खाती है।
मेरे घर भी आओ ना,
मेरा घर भी चहकाओ ना।

सूरज

देखो-देखो निकला सूरज,
चमचमाता दिखता है सूरज।
अपनी किरणें हर जगह,
बिखेरता है सूरज।
देखो कितना प्यारा सूरज,
चमचमाता दिखता है सूरज।

कोरोना को हराना है

कोरोना को हराना है,
हिम्मत नहीं हारनी है, देश को बचाना है।
खाँसी- जुकाम हो तो जल्दी डॉक्टर पर
जाएँगे।
हाथ-नाक और मुँह को छूने से बचेंगे।
कोरोना को वैक्सीन से मारकर देश का
नाम रोशन करेंगे।

घर की नहीं पेड़ों की रानी

घर की नहीं पेड़ों की रानी, गाथा है इनकी सबको सुनानी।
सुबह-सुबह जल्दी उठ जाती, दाना चुगने नभ में उड़ जाती।
अपना घर बनाने के लिए कतरा-कतरा चुन-चुन लाती।
अपनी सुरीली आवाज़ से, हम सबका है मन बहलाती।
मौसम में बदलाव देख, दूर देश भी ये चली जाती।
भिन्न-भिन्न सुंदर रंगों में पाए जाने पर भी,
कभी न करती घमंड अपने पर, कभी न ये खुद पर इतराती।
ना किसी को दुख ये देती, ना किसी को करती तंग।
सब नियमों का पालन ये करती, रहती प्रकृति के ही संग।
बहुत मेहनती है ये जीव, देती हमको कितनी सीख।
आओ, हम उनकी रक्षा करें, जिससे ये रह पाए हमारे बीच।

अब है हँसने की बारी

अध्यापक- बताओ, यमुना नदी कहाँ बहती है?

सुनीता- ज़मीन पर।

अध्यापक- यह बताओ कि नक्शे में कहाँ बहती है?

सुनीता- नक्शे में कैसे बह सकती है, नक्शा गल नहीं जाएगा।

रजत- (स्टेशनरी की दुकान पर) मुझे प्रिंटर के लिए पेपर दे दीजिए।

दुकानदार- ए-4?

रजत- ए फ़ोर एप्पल, अब जल्दी पेपर दे दीजिए।
