Inquiry in Kindergarten

The learners of Kindergarten inquired into the unit on animals under the theme 'Sharing the planet' with the central idea 'Animals have a place in our world, and people can respect and care for them in many ways'.

During the course of the inquiry, learners found out interesting facts about various animals, their characteristics, their habitats, the food they eat and the ways in which they adapt and survive in their habitats. Towards the end of the unit the learners inquired into the 'Rights of animals and our responsibility towards them'. As a part of their summative assessment they brainstormed and made slogans and posters to spread awareness about our responsibility towards animals and their habitats. Once the posters were ready the learners presented and expressed their thoughts about the same in the form of a rally. They went to Grade Nursery to spread the message of being caring and respectful towards animals. Their efforts were appreciated by the learners and teachers.

Diwali Celebrations

Diwali is the festival of lights. It is celebrated for five days. We clean our houses and buy new items such as kitchen utensils, clothes and sometimes even gold. We decorate our homes with rangoli, flowers and diyas. Then we have a family party. We perform Lakshmi Pooja in our homes. We also perform pooja in our offices to usher in good luck and wealth. On the last day, we celebrate Bhai Dhoj. This is a ceremony where all the sisters apply 'tilak' on their brothers' foreheads. Their brothers in return promise to take care and protect of their sisters.

My Research On Light

In 1879 Thomas Edison invented the electric bulb. People used kerosene lamps, candles, fireplaces and gas lamps before electricity was invented. Saving electricity will help us to reduce global warming and pollution.

To save mother earth and to save electricity and we should follow these steps.

- Turn off unnecessary lights
- Use natural light
- Use task light
- Unplug unused electronics
- Hang dry your laundry

Pre-Primary Grandparents and Annual Day

The Pre-Primary Grandparents and Annual Day was a gala, celebrated with unprecedented fanfare. The great grand parents, grand -parent and parents thronged the school premises on the 15th of December, 2018, to watch the youngest of the young perform for them with gay abandon. The early learners outdid themselves and gave a memorable recital. The theme this year was 'Sustainable Development Goal' set by the UNO in 2015, and targeted to be achieved by 2030. The name of the musical was 'Mission Possible 2030'. The day wound up with a delicious tea served by the school cafeteria. The event was a success and the triumph was possible due to the collaboration of the parent community and the school.

Dubai: My First International Trip

When I realised that my family was planning a trip to Dubai, I was excited because this was going to be my first International trip! I could not sleep thinking about all the fun my cousins and I were going to have on this trip.

When we arrived in Dubai, I could only see tall buildings everywhere and cars moving very fast. I saw many sports cars like the Ferrari, Mustang and Lamborghini. The hotel we stayed in had comfortable rooms with touchpad technology. It even had an infinity pool and not a day passed by when we didn't take a swim in this fascinating pool.

On the first day we went to 'The Dubai Mall', which is the biggest mall I have ever seen and it had an aquarium inside it! My cousins and I spent the whole day looking at the sharks and fish in the aquarium. We even sat in a boat inside the aquarium which showed us the sharks from a very close distance.

The next day we went on a private yacht. It was very different seeing Dubai from the water. When the yacht stopped, my cousins and I jumped into the cold salty water for a brief swim. The most exciting part for me was the unlimited cold drinks which we could have!

On the third day, we went for a 'Dolphin Show'. It was the first time that I touched the nose of a dolphin. To my surprise it felt very hard, but the dolphin was extremely friendly. Next we went for a Dessert Safari. It was scary because there were so many bumps and the car was speeding away in a zig zag manner. Once we arrived, I went for a 'Dirt Bike' ride with my cousins and I held a Falcon in my hand! It is the national bird of UAE. We saw dance shows and ate a tummy full of delicious food. It was a day well spent!

The last day we saved for the best– the top of the Burj. It is the tallest building in the world and I was going to be on top of it! The amazing elevator went from level zero to 124th floor in all of 56 seconds! I wish we could have had the same lift at home! The view from The Burj Khalifa was beautiful and I could see the city lights blinking and twinkling and the ant sized cars moving about below. We also saw the beautiful 'Fountain Show' from the top. It was definitely my most favourite scene in all of Dubai.

My Family and I took many memorable pictures of the most precious moments of our trip. I really can't wait to go for my next trip to some other wonderful place!

I Love Basketball

Basketball is my favourite sport. I like playing basketball, I really do. Our coach, Neha Ma'am, teaches us how to dribble and shoot the ball. She also teaches us how to perform tricks like 'Figure of Eight'. The best technique I learned is to pass the ball between my legs in just one dribble. During classes, we sometimes play practice matches to prepare ourselves for tournaments.

Once, when I injured myself while playing, Neha Ma'am helped me stretch my arms and legs and I felt much better. She is very tall and beautiful. She has inspired me to play basketball. Now I have a basketball hoop in my house too. My friends join in to play with me. When I grow up, I wish to be selected for the school team and I hope to win many tournaments.

Sarah's Tricks

Once there was a family of four which included a boy named Alvin, his parents and their beloved cat, Sarah. One dark and stormy night, Alvin was home alone with Sarah. He was trying on his new invisible suit which he had invented. Sarah thought she was alone in the room, so she quickly transformed herself into a wicked witch! But she was wrong as Alvin was still inside the room and had not actually left.

Sarah made a broom appear out of nowhere and sat on it to fly to a secret place. Alvin also sat on the broom and reached a tower made of coal and it was surrounded by wands. She entered the tower through a secret entrance. Alvin saw a cauldron, some beakers and liquids in different shades of purple, green and yellow. Alvin also saw a staircase. He went up the staircase and saw a shelf filled with books! Alvin pulled out a book and it read, 'Sarah's Story'. Alvin now learned that Sarah was under a spell and that she was actually a normal girl like everyone else. It also mentioned a counter spell which said, 'Sarah Chango, Sarah Returno'. This was to be repeated thrice for the spell to be effective. But there was a problem; if he spoke, Sarah would hear him. He had an idea! He decided to whisper the counter spell instead.

Alvin went down the staircase and he whispered the counter spell. Slowly Sarah changed into a normal girl. Sarah thanked Alvin and both went home and remained friends for a long, long time.

The Girl With Three Eyes

Once upon a time, there was a girl. Her name was Pooja. She used to stay in a jungle. One day, she went to her friend's house. Her friend's name was Meena. They played the whole night and next morning, Pooja went home. When she saw her face in the mirror, she was shocked to see a third eye. Then she heard a God's voice "I am giving you the power of future vision. You can see anyone's future with your third eye."

She was very excited to have this power but she started misusing. She started spoiling people's future. One day again she heard the voice of God "You should not act like this. You should not misuse your power. Use it for world's benefit". Finally, she understood the right path and she stopped doing wrong things. She and her family then lived happily.

Moral- If you have special capabilities, you should use it for good things.

Durga Pooja

During Durga Pooja, I went to a pandal where I saw the priest showering flowers on the statue of Goddess Durga.

Now I will tell you the story of Goddess Durga and why we celebrate Durga puja. A long time ago, there was a cruel king buffalo king Mahishasura. He worshipped Lord Brahma for thousands of years. One day Brahma came to him and said, "Ask me anything you want and I will grant you all your wishes." After hearing this, Mahishasur wished that he should be invincible in every single war and that he should not be killed by a "man or animal" on the face of Earth. Lord Brahma thought for a moment, and then granted Mahishasur his wish and also told him that a woman will be the end of him.

The very next day Mahishasur, assured of his invincibility, chased all the guards out of heaven. The scared guards ran to Vishnu, Brahma and Shiva for their help. The three Gods made a blinding light out of which Goddess Durga was born.

The Gods started to present her with some strong weapons such as a chakra, a sword, a mace, arrows, a bow, and even a lion to ride on. With all these weapons and blessings from the Gods, she went to fight the mighty Mahishasur. She fought the demon for ten long days and on the last day, she managed to cut off the devil's head, thus killing him.

To celebrate this victory of good over evil, Durga Pooja is celebrated for ten days all across West Bengal and Ma Durga is welcomed with great joy.

All of Grade 1 had gone for a visit to the Rail Museum. We saw models of trains. We also saw a map of Noida. We saw the map of India too on the wall with orange lines. The orange lines stood for train tracks. We also saw a model of a train for the future. We went through the whole museum. We had a train ride too. We ate snacks. It was lots of fun.

Air Pollution

I would like to share a few facts about air pollution in Delhi- NCR. It has crossed the most dangerous level. As per the news and daily reports; the life span of the people living in this region has been reduced by 10 years on an average. The density of the pollution is visible to our naked eyes. It is very difficult to move out without prescribed masks. This situation is very dangerous for the aged and for people with asthmatic problems. An order has been passed by the governing authority to stop all outdoor activities in schools, such as sports. This has to be followed for the safety of children. Not only human beings but animals, birds and fish are also being affected by pollution. People are using air purifiers at home and during morning walks. Our government has also installed purifiers in highly polluted areas. Now a new term has been developed which is called 'SMOG'. It is the combination of fog and smoke. During the day smoke is released into the air by vehicles, factories etc. This goes up into the air during the day and at night it comes down with heavy moisture or fog due to the cold winters. Anyone can see the layers of heavy smoke at shoulder level each morning. Hence, walking early in the morning has also become very harmful. The remedies are drinking a lot of water, using masks while going out, blowing your nose after returning home each day and eating a healthy diet.

Boys and Girls Are Same.

One day I was wearing a pair of pink pants and playing with my little brother. A cousin of mine came over and said, "Why are you wearing pink pants? this is a girl's colour? I replied, "Pink is my favourite colour and it can be a boy's colour too." Another day, a close friend of mine made fun of my toy kitchen set. I felt really sad and embarrassed. I had many questions in my mind.

Why is pink a girl's colour and blue a boy's colour?

Why is a kitchen set a girl's toy and car a boy's toy?

If girls and boys are the equal, then everything should be same.

No matter what, we should play with whichever toy we like and wear whatever colour we love.

We should never make fun of each other's choices.

Air Pollution After Diwali

The day after Diwali was very polluted. It was polluted because of crackers. We wore masks for many days, many people became asthmatic, got heart diseases, strokes and lung cancer. People should not have burst crackers. It harmed many animals and trees. The bad air quality of Delhi made it one of the world's most polluted cities. Dogs faced a lot of problems due to the loud noise because they can hear many times louder than us. Moreover, many dogs got burned and injured during the festival and some faced respiratory difficulties. This year, green crackers were introduced which helped us reduce pollution. The government also took strict precautions, like setting time limits for bursting crackers but nobody followed them. We should take a pledge that we will not burst crackers next time, to protect mother Earth.

A Surprise Meeting With Ruskin Bond

Ruskin Bond – is probably my first real life Superstar after the Walt Disney cartoons. My parents got me two of his books – 'The Dust in the Mountain' and 'The Blue Umbrella,' during my summer vacations when I was just 6 years old.

The Cherry Tree, Getting Granny's Glasses, The Tree Lover, The Day Grandfather tickled the Tiger and ,The Road to the Bazaar are some other titles I have read recently.

His stories are so friendly and often based in the Himalayas or in its foothills. This is where he has spent most of his own life. He is 84 years old and has won many awards and has been writing for nearly 60 years.

I like the children's stories written by him since they talk about local people, jungles, animals, and things related to the natural world. I recently visited Mussourie on a vacation, and my parents discovered that he too visits a certain bookstore in the evenings. As a small kid and reader, my wish came true when I actually met him. He patted me, and spoke to me, and signed two of his books for me. He looked frail and old, but very active and asked me many questions about my school, friends, my favourite sports, food habits, chocolates, and what I liked most about his books. Once he left, I wanted to meet him again, so I asked my parents to show me his house. The next afternoon, we travelled on a very steep, yet beautiful mountain and saw his cozy and small home in Landour. Further up, the Landour Bakehouse had such good milk and cookies along with the nicest book about Ruskin Bond and his life. It's a big book, so my mom says I could read it when I'm 10 years old!

I was so thrilled that since then I have bought a few more books of Ruskin Bond and want to read them all very soon. It was my best trip ever and he shall always be my 'First Favourite Author!'

Air Pollution

We need air to breathe. The air is very polluted these days because of smoke from transport running on petrol and diesel, smoke from factories and dust particles. Polluted air makes animals and people sick. It also reduces visibility.

To reduce air pollution, we should use transport which runs on CNG or electricity. We should plant more trees and use more natural than factory-made things. We should use a car-pool. We should wear masks to protect ourselves from air pollution. We should use the 3'Rs – Reduce, Reuse and Recycle to protect our environment.

My Friendship

Shantanu, Prisha, Medhavi and Zian are my best friends. They like to play and have fun with me. They help me in my studies. They play with me in the school park and we love to talk with each other about our lovely school. They are all so kind and supportive.

One day Prisha accompanied me to a friend's birthday party where I suddenly got hurt. Prisha sat next to me throughout the party because she did not want me to be alone. That's what friends are for. I wish that we will never break up and be friends forever.

Save Water

We should not waste water because there are many people who do not get water. They drink dirty water from the drainage and they get sick. One day when my house help was cleaning the utensils, she left the tap open. When I went to see what she was doing, I found her wasting water. I stopped her, but she argued and insisted that she wasn't wasting water. I explained to her how other countries were suffering because of water shortage. She wanted to know why I was bathing in a bath tub. I explained to her that I wasn't bathing in a tub, but instead was taking a bath with my sister with just half a bucket of water. She then understood and promised not to waste water ever again. We should not waste water uselessly.

My Bit To Fight Pollution

An environment is where animals, people and birds live in harmony. If we don't have plants, then what will happen? We will not have oxygen and we will all die. If there are no plants, the birds will also die.

So, I participated in the 'Go Green Plantation Drive' in our society. We first looked around our society to find places for plantations. We then planted saplings everywhere in our society. We planted different types of pollution fighting plants like Tulsi, Palm Tree and Aloe Vera. These plants clean up the air around them. I feel so proud, when I see those plants growing up so beautifully all around.

The Hit Rock Music

There was a five year old girl who loved music. Her parents named her Teresa. She used to listen to music and play the piano very well. She used to compose her own songs and sing to their beat. She was one of the finest singers of her age who used to perform on stage. A day before her performance, her mother told her that she needed to practise a lot. So she practised continuously for almost five hours without eating or drinking anything. By the time it was 8 pm, she was very tired and hungry, so her mother prepared some food for her to eat and then she went to sleep dreaming about her next performance. The next day when she stood up on the stage, she rocked the show and was the star of the evening! The thing I learnt from this is - Practise Makes Us Better!

A Story With A Moral

This story is about Bhola and his ox Kallu. Bhola used to work in the fields and he was a very happy and a satisfied man. He had a neighbour Shankar who was very rich. He was very jealous of Bhola as he was poor and yet always very happy. Shankar thought that Bhola was happy because of his ox Kallu, so he decided to buy the ox from Bhola. Shankar went to Bhola to buy the ox, but Bhola refused to sell it to him. This made Shankar angry and at night he burned Bhola's field. This left Bhola with no money at all, so he finally decided to sell his ox.

While Bhola was going to the market to sell his ox, he had to cross a forest to reach the market. He tied a few gold coins which he had with him on the neck of the ox to keep them safe from robbers as he crossed the forest. Since he had not tied the gold coin bag securely enough, they began to fall off as the ox was walking along.

On the way a rich merchant saw this and thought that the ox was magical as gold coins were falling from its neck. He immediately bought the ox with 1000 gold coins. Bhola with the 1000 gold coins started a dairy farm and became rich and happy again. This made Shankar very sad that in spite of all his efforts Bhola was still happy.

The moral of the story teaches us that we should be happy with what we have and should not envy others. You never know Gods ways and how luck can change.

My Christmas Dream

Christmas is just around the corner and I am so excited. I am looking forward to meeting Santa Claus as he will be bringing many gifts for me.

As the clock strikes twelve, I suddenly hear the sound of footsteps coming down the stairs. I am delighted to see Santa Claus standing in front of me. He smiles and says, "Hello Princess!" He is wearing a red coat and a red cap. He is carrying a sack full of goodies. He gives me lots of toys and candies. We both chat for a long time.

Then my alarm rings and I am awake. I see my bed full of toys but there is no Santa! I ask my mother where could Santa Claus really be? My mother smiles and tells me that I must have been dreaming. I narrate the whole story to her, realising that it was just a wonderful Christmas dream. I thank my mother for the lovely gifts.

The best Christmas gift

In a small town, there lived a little boy named James. He was a well behaved boy who always spoke politely. He wanted to go to school but his mother and father didn't have any money. As Christmas approached, James wondered what might Santa give him. Finally on Christmas night, James waited for Santa. After a while he fell asleep and he could not hear the stomping of Santa's feet. Santa knew James was a good boy, so he filled his rooms with lot of books for him to read and learn. Next morning when James woke up, he was delighted to see the books and he never missed going to the school anymore!

They all were playing well but Jake was not passing the ball to anybody, not even to his best friend Conner. Then he tried to make a goal but Greg saved that goal and then Spike made a goal. The match continued and at last Spike's team won a gold cup. Jake was very sad so Spike told him that we should play as a team. After that match Jake always played with good team spirit.

A Visit To The National Science Center

"Nothing beats the an exciting hands on experience to deepen learning . The magic of a field trip isn't just the subject . It's the break in the routine and adventure that opens up children's mind to new things." - ANONYMOUS

The learners of Grade 3 visited the National Science Centre on 8th December 2018.

They went there to observe and experience the evolution of communication, money and machines .

The learners curiosity was at its peak and their inquiring minds wanted to soak in all the information available there. Learners visited various sections of the center like the science and technology, history and culture etc. They observed how evolved we are today in terms of our living. Learners were able to make direct connection to their current theme, " How We Organize Ourselves " when they saw the evolution of money. They were also able to make connections to their previous units on machines when they observed the evolution of the printing press, computers etc. In all it was an enriching experience for the learners . Learners reflected how easy their lives had become due to the contribution of so many people in the past and everybody was truly thankful to them.

A Trip To The Moon

A trip to the moon
On a sticky broom
I always think about space
I wait for the night with an excited face.
If one day I go to the moon
Will it be a bane or a boon?
I saw a torn pocket,
From it came a giant rocket.
I went into it,
I could perfectly fit.
When I arrived on the moon,
I thought, the time was actually noon.
I finally hoisted the Indian Flag , then started to do a little dance.
Phew! It was an extremely tiring trip,
I went again into the relaxing spaceship.

 happily round you go spreading cool breeze around.
 Your white inclined blades look like a flowing white skirt,
 when swish you go round and round.
 I know you are a machine, but I love you a lot,
 you cool me down when the Sun makes me hot.
 Made of simple machines and yet so complex,
 I totally agree you are an important object.
 Wheel and axle are the simple machines,
 That help you function like a king.
 Axle is stuck tightly to your large wheel,
 and your inclined blades are attached to that wheel.
 When the axle turns, your blades spin and cool,
 the breeze around as it reels.
 Movies show men and machines fight,
 but you are my friend and you are so right.

The Magical Bottle

One day I went to a shop with my friend Ria to buy Christmas decorations. On our way back home we saw a beautiful and sparkling bottle. When we touched it, the water in the bottle turned blue.

As soon as we drank some blue water, we started flying like birds. We soon realized that the water was magical.

As we flew, we saw many interesting things. We could see the nests in the trees where small baby birds were looking at us in surprise. As we flew over the school playground, we saw small children in their uniforms attending morning assembly. While crossing the river, we saw small boats and fisherman catching fish. It was an amazing sight as I have never seen such a variety of fish in fish nets.

We also saw big ships which looked like cities in the sea and they were really beautiful! As we crossed mountains and rivers we met Doraemon and he was also surprised to see that we were flying without a gadget. We just smiled at him.

Soon we saw the sun and it was about to set. We decided to fly back home just like all the other birds who fly back to their nests in the evenings.

I reached home and I told my mother about all that had happened. She was very surprised and she kept the bottle safely in my room.

It was a wonderful day!

Happiness

“Happiness can be found even in the darkest of times, if only one remembers to turn on the light” These words by Albus Percival Wulfric Brain Dumbledore are known well to the wizarding world.

The first time you read these words it might seem to be complete nonsense; but if you give it a second thought, it will surely make some good sense. I'll try my best to explain what it means to me..... so here I go!

Happiness is something we find or create with our own point of view, opinion or our own thinking. These words are similar to another phrase which says - 'Happiness is a state of mind'.

Therefore, it means that we can find happiness even in our saddest moments only if we remember to live on the brighter side of life. For instance, you may run a race, and come first while your best friend may have come third. When getting the medals, you stand quietly but your friend is all very excited. This signifies that happiness is a state of mind. This state can be brought about only by yourself.

One can be happy only if he or she agrees to be happy. Sometimes even the smallest of things can make you happy. On the other hand, the bigger things may not succeed in bringing a smile to your face if you have inwardly decided not to be happy at all.

In other words- the key to your happiness is in your hands and no one has the power to take it away from you. So hold on to your key, smile, be happy and spread happiness.

If I Could Fly

Only if I could fly
I would like to touch the sky !!
My trip would be full of fun
As I would run around the Sun !!
Although it would be far
But I am sure I wouldn't even need a car.
So all I need now are the wings to fly
So that I could touch the Sky !!

Guest Speaker

The 19th of December, 2018, was a very informative day for me and my friends. A parent visited us and spoke about sunlight and solar power. Sun is very important for us because it gives us light. He told us that the solar panels absorb the energy from the sun and send it to electric panels. The stored electricity then is distributed to houses and buildings for use. We have improved our knowledge about solar power and we have become more knowledgeable. I loved listening to him and I will be more caring and will save electricity.

Fallacies

One day, I was watching television and I saw an advertisement of a liquid soap – a very famous and old brand. I asked my mother to buy that liquid soap for me. My mother asked me, "Why do you want this?" I replied, "I want it because the ad says that when people touch a cake of soap, it gets dirty and germs get stuck to it. Liquid soap is safer as it has a pump and it will not get infected by any germs."

I was only 5 years old at that time!!

My mom then smiled and explained the term 'fallacy' to me. This is what she said – "A fallacy is something which is not true. Let's take the example of your soap. It is true that a very famous and old brand of soap removes germs, but so do all other soaps, so it is a fallacy to say that only a very famous and old brand does this and that it is the best."

"Ah ok, I got it Mom!" I said.

Advertisements on TV make things look very good and nice so that we buy them, but not all of what they say is true or are the things we really need.

Hence, moral of this episode is – Verify things which someone else has said. These may not be true. Use what you already know about it and don't waste money on fallacies.

Diwali Can be Fun Without Crackers

I don't think we should burst crackers at all during the festival of Diwali. Crackers create a lot of pollution. These crackers harm the environment as they are filled with harmful gases. Children are known to have got burnt because of these terrible fireworks. Diwali is not just about crackers. It is more about decorating and refreshing our homes, meeting friends and relatives, exchanging gifts, preparing special meals and having fun. So I think Diwali can be fun even without bursting of crackers.

Martin Luther King, Jr.

Martin Luther King, Jr. was a Human Rights activist and the 10th of December is marked as the Human Rights Day. He is well known as a champion for non-violence. While he was a minister, he took steps towards being an activist by writing a letter to the editor of the Atlanta Constitution that, African-Americans should be treated as Americans. He got married and he and his wife had four children.

One day, a woman named Rosa Parks was arrested because she wasn't giving up her seat to a white American and people at that time were judged by their skin color. After hearing of this, Martin, along with other activists took action and arranged a 'Boycott Bus' in which people with black skins could sit anywhere in the bus. However he was arrested by the people who didn't want the changes to happen and at the same time the boycott was a success. The court decided that people with black skin could sit in the bus wherever they like and Martin became a national figure. Then he went to Alabama for a campaign as it was known as the most segregated place. People over there were attacked by police dogs and fire hoses. Then he started the march in Washington for freedom and jobs in which 250,000 gathered. Over there Martin gave his famous 'I have a dream' speech. He spoke that, "I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character". Then Mr. Luther won the Nobel Peace Prize and donated the money for civil rights. After the march in Washington, the congress made it illegal to discriminate against people with different skin colour. After this he started a march to convince the president that even an African could vote. Later on he started a poor people campaign for economic change. On the 4th of April, 1968, when Martin was standing outside his balcony with a few people, he was shot and at the hospital they got to know that he was dead. Martin Luther stopped the rule of people being judged by their skin colour. The president also declared that the 3rd Monday of January would be Martin Luther day.

Mary's Strange Dream

Once upon a time there was a girl named Mary. All of a sudden one day, she found herself in a world where there was no one else except some small insects. When she started exploring the place further, she stepped on a sand sinkhole. She went deeper and deeper into it and finally fell on to the ground with a thud. She realized that she was now in a place where there only existed some pyramids. She noticed that she was standing on a ceiling! She tried to come down but realized after a while that the pyramids were on the ceiling too and she was standing on the ground! She felt extremely confused and homesick. She couldn't figure out what to do next. Suddenly she heard someone saying "Mary, wake up or you will be late for school!" She was so happy to find out that it was only a dream and in reality she was at home

Should Children Get Homework ?

I completely agree that children should get homework daily.

Firstly, I would like to say that, we must get homework as we study a lot in school but we have to revise those concepts at home. If we don't revise those concepts we will anyway forget them. For example- If I don't do my homework the next day early morning, I won't know what's happening in class. So this proves that every concept is related to another. This also means regular homework helps to prepare for the next lesson.

Secondly, I would like to say that, if children don't get homework they'll have nothing to do, so they'll start disturbing their parents, as they're getting bored. By this they can get scolding. For Instance, when my brother doesn't get homework from school he's constantly disturbing our parents, as he has nothing to do, nothing to revise. Therefore he isn't using his time constructively and also doesn't let others do their work.

Thirdly, I would like to say that, children must get homework as it improves our memory and thinking. Furthermore, it teaches us to take responsibility for our work. Therefore, if our thinking skills are good we will always score good in class. If our memory is good we can help our parents remember things. Most importantly it helps us to become responsible and take care of our things.

Finally, to sum it up, I would like to say that, children must get homework daily, if we want to inculcate the values of responsibility and self-management skills in them.

My Trip To Ranthambore

It all began on 29th November when our school organized a fun school trip to a wonderful place called Ranthambore. We left early at 6:30 am and reached our destination by the evening. After a magnificent lunch, we took some rest in the rooms. We took part in many fun activities and ate some scrumptious snacks.

Then came the special part which we were all waiting for – The Jungle Safari. We were so very excited at the thought of our first safari. My friends and I sat in a Canter and our journey began. I was pleasantly surprised to see many animals like spotted deer and some elephants.

As the days went by, I learnt new things. We visited a beautiful fort. We went for yet another safari when I saw a crocodile sunbathing and an owl dancing! This was probably the rarest sight of them all. Unfortunately there were no tigers to be seen this time, but in conclusion it was truly a wonderful trip. The most important thing was that I learnt to be independent.

If I Were Gas.....

If I could be gas

I could fly freely in the sky,

I could go where ever I wanted to go

Like a fresh butterfly.

I would be invisible and invincible

I would also be divisible,

No one would feel my weight

And I would be never late.

I could be fast like a tornado

Or slow like a breeze,

I would be faster than the bees

I would be moving with the geese.

Winter Is Here!

The wind can make you freeze so fast
 Because winter is here at last!
 The trees are stark
 With barks so dark
 While the birds have all gone
 Not a sound of a lark.

The snow sliding down like a star
 The hills look like the clouds
 Snowy and shimmering white.
 The children sleigh down into the night,
 With cold icy noses, they rush inside
 As in their own homes, it is cozy and nice.

 And he protects us like a tiger,
 My Mother is as pretty as an angel.
 My Grand Mother is as innocent as a child,
 My Grand Father is funny like a clown,
 My Uncle is like a playful candle
 And he always cheers me up
 Whenever I am feeling low
 My Aunt is very smart like a fox.
 And I am as sweet as a candy,
 Together we make the 'Best Family'.

If I Had Powers.....

If I had powers,
 I would fly high up in the sky,
 I would look at the mother Earth,
 And take a pledge to clean her up.

I would help people study,
 And save them from fights,
 But I won't forget my mother Earth,
 And make it clean and bright.

The streets, the beaches and all water bodies,
 Should be clean, clear and beautiful for everybody,
 I have seen people throwing plastic and trash,
 Don't you all know it's harmful for plants?

We should never dirty mother Earth,
 and should keep her neat and clean,
 As I believe having a beautiful Earth,
 is the power SUPREME!

World disability Day

On 3rd December 2018, we attended an important session on World Disability Day. In this session all the LSD teachers were present and they spoke, about "Inclusion". We are an inclusive school and this means that we include every child in every activity. It does not matter whether the child is disabled or not.

Disability means people or children who are faced with mental, physical or emotional problems. For example - Problems with speaking, hearing, thinking and writing.

On this day we express our feelings for people who are disabled. This day was marked by the United Nations.

We can help by scribing for them, including them in all different activities and by not bullying them. We can also be more understanding towards their feelings and help in making their lives happier and easier.

My Dear Sister

I love my sister,
She is as good as a guide.

I love to follow her,
As I follow my teachers in school.

We both love mother and father,
And I love to bother her.

My sister loves to be busy,
As busy as a bee.

We both love to be lazy,
Like donkeys during the weekends.
I love my sister !

But slower than it,

I am as strong as a table

But I don't live in a stable.

But I work diligently like a probot,

I am as caring as a dog

But I can't pick up a log.

I am as cool as actors

In math I know factors,

I am as stylish as a man

My mother was born in Jan.

I am as funny as a joker

But I can't fit in a locker,

I am as big as a raptor

In Charlotte's Web I've read a new chapter.

Trees Are Our Saviours

Trees are our Saviour,
They help us to make
Treats that we savour
They do us a favour.

So for all that they do
Can we care for them,
And plant little seeds?
Can we do some good deeds?

If we don't, the world would suffer
Living would get even tougher,
Trees have the greatest power.
They provide us with rainy shower

After they've gone,
you would wish they'd remained,
For then you'd read this poem
Again and again.

Remember when all the lovely trees
Wouldn't be in sight,
They could be quietly disappearing,
Into the dark night.

A Message From Mother Earth

I the earth, am trembling in fear
Natural disasters happening almost everywhere.
One volcanic eruption and I get burnt,
One underwater earthquake and a tsunami occurs.
I cry and cry, what have you done to me
Climate Change makes the glaciers melt
You don't know what I have felt.
The water level increases and the flood comes
The cold decreases and my outer layer burns.
Global warming gives me serious fever
One day , on one day I might die.
Why? Why?Why?
I love you all equally.
I want to live in peace, love and serenity.
When I will be dying
You will have to face the consequences
Which you will suffer.
But if you avert these natural disasters
You will live in happily forever.

समय बड़ा अनमोल इसका न कोई मोल

समय के बारे में कहा जाता है कि यह धन से भी ज्यादा कीमती है क्योंकि यदि धन को खर्च कर दिया जाए तो वापिस उसे प्राप्त किया जा सकता है मगर यदि हम एक बार समय को गँवा देते हैं तो इसे दोबारा प्राप्त नहीं कर सकते। यह कभी किसी की प्रतीक्षा नहीं करता। यह बिना रुके लगातार चलता है। इसलिए हर व्यक्ति को समय की कद्र करनी चाहिए, खासकर हम सभी विद्यार्थियों को समय का सही उपयोग करना चाहिए। तो आइए, हम सभी प्रण लें कि

अगर जीवन में हमें कुछ करना है,

सबसे आगे बढ़ना है तो,

समय के महत्व को पहचानें,

इसकी कीमत हम सब जानें॥
