EDITOR'S NOTE

“Being challenged in life is inevitable, but being defeated is optional”, says Roger Crawford. The pandemic undoubtedly altered the world in innumerable ways. However, that did not put a hold to our students’ urge to learn, create and express. For instance, we celebrated the National Sports Day and Teachers Day with utmost enthusiasm. The spirit of democracy was maintained as high as ever through an online mode of elections and investiture ceremony, for the first time in our school’s history. The aim of this issue of The Trumpet is to remind the students of a commendable job that has been done by them even amidst a pandemic. We hope you enjoy and appreciate the magazine and continue to contribute as well as you already do.

Yours sincerely
Nandini and Aahna

Dear Everyone

She found herself looking in the mirror,
The person she saw; it wasn't her.
The perfect girl was a myth
With the talk small but the waist smaller,
The heart big but the lips bigger.
They want the curves but only in the right places,
They want the contour but no scars on our faces.

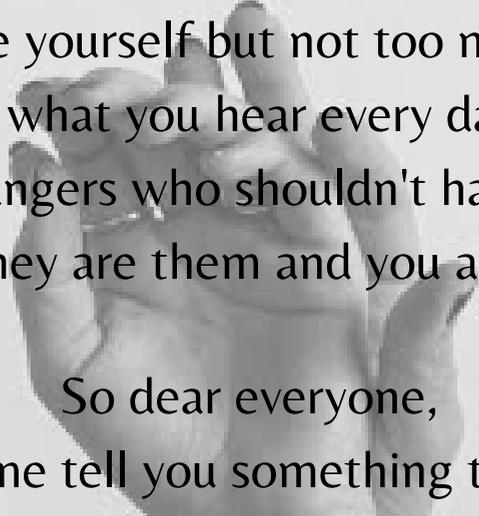

Dear girls,
You aren't pretty enough
Love yourself but not too much.
That's what we hear every day,
From strangers who shouldn't have a say,
Still we can't let that smile fade away.

He didn't have it easy either,
With the demand of being always muscular.
Biceps might make them look "buff",
But being a guy is equally tough.

"He's pretty thin for a boy" remarked Mrs. Sharma,
As though he had some sort of social stigma.
It's sad to know that they want the height, not the cellulite.
The manly beard, but not the tears.

Dear guys,
You aren't strong enough,
Love yourself but not too much.
That's what you hear every day too,
From strangers who shouldn't have a view,
But they are them and you are you.

So dear everyone,
Let me tell you something today.
You will never ever be pretty enough,
Hell, you may not even be enough
But you are the most beautiful you,
It's 100% true and no one can take that away from you.
So, love yourself as much as you want,
It might not be what you're taught,
But being a human comes with a cost.

Be Like a Flower

A flower is not at all greedy,
And by many people it's seen.
It expresses its self freely.
When it rises in the leaves green.

But we humans destroy the Earth,
And the nature we don't respect.
We are not understanding its worth,
Hence, our future it will affect

So sweet and lovely is a flower,
Its fresh and bright all day.
It ends all conflicts and war,
And leads a peaceful way

Just like a flower we should be,
Learn to respect one and all
In the dark the light we should see
For help, nature is giving a call.

The nature's beauty gives us peace. Indeed, a flower is not at all greedy,
It is full of so much mystery. And by many people it's seen.
Huge and calm look the seas. It expresses its self freely.
And they have their own history. When it rises in the leaves green.

ALL MY DAYS ARE DOOMED

All my days are doomed,
The Skys are grey,
filled with blood & dust.
The only sound I hear,
are the shots of guns.

All my days are doomed,
Everyday, I see nothing but death,
innocent children without their heads.
The soldiers are closer to finding me,
because I am gay & shouldn't be able to breathe.

All my days are doomed
I miss the past, when we could sit at home,
And live without the fear of getting killed.
I miss the days I could eat normal food,
And not some scraps or dead rats.

All my days are doomed
I pass by churches,
And look at the lord.
And hear people saying,
thats the plan made by god,
But if so merciful as mentioned,
Why are all our days to only rot?

All my days are doomed
The past is gone,
The present is dreadful,
The future is nothing but doom.
But sometimes I ponder, could there be a future,
In which Hitler is dead and the world is free?
Forget that thought, and move on,
And live everyday filled with certain doom
and gloom
